Notice Regarding a Change in the Company's Industry Classification to Retail

Tokyo, October 1, 2026 — IDOM Inc. ("the Company") hereby announces that the Securities Identification Code Committee has changed the Company's industry classification on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, where the Company's shares are listed, as described below, as of today (October 1, 2026).

Please note that the Company's stock code (7599) remains unchanged.

1. Details of the change

Former Industry Classification	New Industry Classification
Wholesale	Retail

2. Reason

Since its founding, the Company has expanded its operations mainly through its wholesale business, centered on purchasing used cars and selling them at auto auctions. Subsequently, pursuant to its medium-to long-term growth strategy for further business growth and enhanced corporate value, it has strengthened its retail business, focusing on large stores to implement a business model transition.

As a result, retail business has come to account for the largest share of the Company Group's sales and profits in recent years, clearly indicating the transition to retail business in terms of its actual business operations.

The Company's industry classification was changed from wholesale to retail as of today because the Securities Identification Code Committee recognized the Company's transition to a retail business model in light of the current state of its business operations.
